

PAMELA BRYSON-WEAVER

Pamela is an author, speaker, activist and a subject matter expert on Autism Spectrum Disorders. She works with all types of organizations, professionals, service providers and families wanting to establish success strategies and interactions with people who have ASDs.

WHAT IS AUTISM?

Autism is a multiplex of developmental disabilities.

Autism, also known as Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD), is a wide-spectrum disorder. This means that no two people with autism have exactly the same symptoms (each person) can experience varying combinations of symptoms; some people will have mild symptoms while others will have severe ones.

ABOUT PAMELA BRYSON-WEAVER...

Pamela Bryson-Weaver; is a autism parent advocate. Her sage advice, wisdom, knowledge, and expertise as a mother of an autistic child, advocate for autism, speaker on autism, head of non-profits, author on autism, business owner in the field of dentistry for over 30 years working with clients with ASD's, understands autism clearly. Two of her three children have special needs; John, her youngest son, has autism and Joshua has Tourettes and ADHD. She is an author, speaker and activist for children with special needs, children who are close to heart. She has spent her entire professional career working with clients who have special needs, including Autism Spectrum Disorders. As past president of the Autism Society in New Brunswick Canada, her activism has allowed her to work with government members of Parliament and other parents. With their combined efforts, all children diagnosed with an autism spectrum disorder in her Province receive $20,000 a year for treatment. She served as the Director of Pee Wee Active Living, formally Junior Special Olympics, a program she began in her city. Bryson-Weaver also produced and promoted through Canada's largest woman's' league a resolution on autism that was presented locally, provincially, and nationally, and was passed nationally in Canada 2004.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING...

"The book is fabulous, and I highly recommend it! The website is also fabulous, and will continue to be a wonderful resource, I look forward to seeing it continue to grow and evolve! You are such a wonderful mother and such an inspiration! Keep up the amazing work and know that you are making such a difference in this world! God Bless! - Kimberly Arsenault, Bachelor of Music Therapy

"Pamela Bryson-Weaver has done a remarkable job creating a beautiful mosaic consisting of heartfelt disclosures, universal wisdom, and scientific knowledge. The love, compassion, and devotion that emerged made me feel invincible. Living autism day.by.day is written with the kind of love that makes us all better people." - Theo Tsaousides, Ph.D., Neuropsychologist, Adjunct Assistant Professor, Mount Sinai School of Medicine

"Wow! I was searching for a website like this for a very very long time and here it is! Allow me to refer your site to my clients." - Prof. Edwar McCain, Dublin

"Living autism day.by.day". It is beautiful! What I found so powerful and inspiring was that your content can apply to ANYBODY!!! It does not have to be about autism. I loved it! I love your writing! I see your book as a tool to inspire others." - Ann McIndoo, CEO / Founder of So You Want To Write! and author of So You Want To Write, #1 Bestseller on Kindle and Amazon!

"This is the best website for anyone to ease the difficulty finding professionals and services available to help when dealing with autism! Well done!!" - Dr. Perley Weaver, Trenton, ON, Canada

"This devotional, soul-searching book Living autism day.by.day, will provide the missing component that all professionals rarely address. The feelings of a parent or caregiver of a child with an autistic spectrum disorder diagnosis. It is from the point of view of a mother that has experienced these feelings for over 15 years. A great read for moral support, even if your child doesn't have autism." - Kathryn Thorson Gruhn, MA Speech-Language Pathologist, Positive Parenting Expert and appears on television nationally as the Positive Parenting Expert.
